

MID-YEAR GRADUATING EXERCISES TO TAKE PLACE THURSDAY EVENING

Eleven Students Will Receive Diplomas for Completing the Course

STANDING OF CLASS VERY HIGH

The culminating point in the graduating week's activities of the Mid-Year Class of 1921 will occur at the high school auditorium on Thursday evening next, when the members of the class will receive their parchments. To the credit of the organization it must be said that no class which has preceded it has attained a higher standard of perfection than have the eleven students comprising this body. They have just brought to its close a period of four years' conscientious labor, during which time they succeeded in accomplishing work which has been a decided credit to them, as well as a pleasure to their instructors.

The speaker of this occasion will be Dr. John Carey Acheson, president of the Pennsylvania College for Women of Pittsburgh, Pa., undoubtedly one of the most forceful speakers ever heard in Charleroi. Dr. Acheson delivered the address to the graduating class of a year ago, and all who heard him on that occasion will recall with pleasure the choiceness of his utterances, and will welcome this opportunity to again listen to him.

J. S. Russell, a valued member of the School Board, will present the diplomas to the graduates. The following programme will be rendered:
Overture, "The Bridge Rose"—High School Orchestra.
Invocation—Rev. F. C. Lake.
Salutatory, "Reconstruction Problems"—Mary Berryman.
Duet, "Maying"—Dorothy Stroud and Orman Morgan.
Valedictory, "Immigration," Howard Bradley.
Selection, "Autumn Flowers" (By Request)—The Crawfords.
Address—Dr. John Carey Acheson.
Selection, "Sparklets"—High School Orchestra.
Presentation of Diplomas—J. S. Russell.
Presentation of Class Picture—Howard Bradley.
Benediction—Rev. R. J. Shields.
March, "The Fox Trail"—High School Orchestra.

Admission will be free and a cordial invitation is extended the general public to be present. The exercises will commence promptly at eight o'clock.

There will be a meeting of the Maccabees at the home of Mrs. Garigan 709 McKean avenue on Tuesday evening. Every member is urged to be present. Business of importance to be transacted.

Order of Commander.

ALTO ACCIDENT IN BELLE VERNON

Two persons were injured, neither seriously, Wednesday night last at 9 o'clock, when a Buick car driven by Charles Sewell, North Belle Vernon, crashed into a pole just below the "Inn" there. Sewell has a bruised right arm and possibly a fracture of the right wrist. His companion was bruised about the face and arms. The car was badly damaged.

MEETS ACCIDENT IN BASKETBALL GAME

The girls' basketball team of the Charleroi high school went to Ellsworth, last Friday evening, where they met defeat at the hands of their opponents, by the score of 11 to 5. Despite the final count the game was well contested one, especially during the first half. The summary:
Charleroi—Ellsworth—
Hersol.....F.....Welling
Sangston.....F.....Davis
Wilson.....C.....Johnson
Speers.....G.....Radigan
Provins.....G.....McNully
Substitutions: Charleroi—Phillips for Speers, Speers for Provins. Sangston for Wilson, Woodward for Sangston. Field goals—Piersol, 1 out of 5; Davis, 3 out of 10. Scorer—Mr. Miller. Timekeeper—Miss Decker.

Miss Sue Provins met with a rather painful accident, causing her retirement from the game, due to improper protection of the playing floor. The window near one of the baskets had been only partially covered, there being a space of a few inches between the two boards. In the excitement of the play, and while trying to secure the ball, Miss Provins' hand went between the two boards and through the window, resulting in a few bad cuts. It was one of the accidents which high happen at any time, but should have been avoided with adequate protection. This will now, undoubtedly, be provided.

Next Friday afternoon, the girls will meet the girls of the Donora high school, on the latter's floor. Donora has a good team, and so, far this season, has won all of its games. However, the locals are going prepared to give them a good fight. The game will be well worth witnessing. Many fans will accompany the team.

FRIENDS OF IRISH FREEDOM TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom tomorrow evening at eight o'clock in Lyceum of St. Jerome's church. Everybody invited. Special speakers. 195-11-1

Must Have Adequate Income To Carry Out Proposed Plans

Membership dues in the Charleroi Chamber of Commerce have been fixed at $25 a year. This is an advance from the present rate of $5 a year. In answering the question of "how will the chamber be financed?" the executive committee also announced that the chamber would ask for pledges on a three-year basis, with a rule that death, removal or bankruptcy shall automatically cancel a membership.

It is anticipated that the increase in the dues rate will occasion some comment, but members of the committee do not look for any hesitancy about accepting it when the conditions are understood.

More than 85 percent, it is said, of the successful civic-commercial organization of the county maintain the $25 rate. The actual cost of operating a modern-type chamber of commerce is between $18 and $20 per year per member, this statement being based on an inquiry among more than 200 organizations.

"If the Charleroi Chamber of Commerce is to do the things the citizens want done, it must have an adequate income," says the argument for the $25 rate for the organization. "Four hundred memberships at $25 each will provide the least amount the chamber should have for rent, light, heat, printing, stationery, expenses of committees, clerical and scenographic help and the salary of a full-time secretary, its only paid official."

"Every corporation and firm and every business and professional man and woman who becomes a member of the chamber should regard the dues as properly chargeable to 'overhead,' the legitimate running expenses of the business or office. Civic-commercial organization dues should be looked upon just as that portion of the taxes with which a city safeguards property, because without such provision property values would disappear. The citizens of progressive communities safeguard community interests by organizing and maintaining civic-commercial bodies for the same reason—to maintain and increase civic values."

The plural membership is another plan which has been adopted. "There are eligible to membership in the Chamber of Commerce a considerable number of concerns and some individuals whose interests in and responsibilities to the community are so large that they should give more to the support of the chamber than those of smaller means."

"Such additional memberships will have no rights until they have been assigned to individuals. When assigned to the younger men in the concerns or to others, they will bring into the chamber those who in a few years will be heads of departments, partners, or even owners, gaining their interest a community work early with a certainty that it will be maintained."

BACCALAUREATE WELL ATTENDED

The high school auditorium was well filled, last evening, the occasion being the baccalaureate exercises of the Mid-Year Class of 1921. Rev. E. H. Greenlee, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, preached the sermon taking as his text the words found in John 6:63—"Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life." His subject was, "A Vital Realization." The discourse was an able one, and the speaker was given an attentive hearing. Rev. Mr. Greenlee was assisted by the ministers of the different churches. Music for the occasion was under the direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel. A chorus of high school students sang Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light," in a manner which added much to the effectiveness of the exercises; and the singing of Stanier's beautiful duet, "Love Divine," from the "Crucifixion" by Miss Edith Keyes and Orman Morgan, two very promising high school vocalists, was an enjoyable feature of the evening's program. The services throughout were impressive and were also much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Yadrick entertained at their home on Shady avenue last evening in honor of their daughter Katherine. Music was the feature of the evening after which a delightful lunch was served by the hosts. Our of town guests were present from Pittsburgh, Monessen, Roscoe and Brownsville.

It is announced that Kentucky is going extensively into the oil business. How times have changed.

CONFRATERNITY IS WELL ATTENDED

When Archbishop Canevin, with Rev. D. A. Lawless and Rev. E. A. Heinrich, director and assistant director of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, and the priests from all the surrounding towns with the exception of a few entered the social rooms of the Knights of Columbus in the basement of St. Jerome's church, Sunday afternoon, they found a very large concourse of people present to attend the meeting, which was opened with prayer.

Reports of the work for the past year of the Charleroi and Monongahela branches were read and proved very interesting and gratifying. The meeting was addressed by Most Reverend Regis Canevin, Rev. D. A. Lawless, Rev. E. A. Heinrich, Rev. Wm. D. Fries, rector of St. Jerome's and L. F. S. Cook, President of the Pittsburgh Branch of the Missionary Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. Mr. Cook is a convert to the Catholic faith.

The meeting closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and reception of members.

TWO JURY PANELS DRAWN FOR FEBRUARY

Two panels of jurors were drawn on Tuesday, 50 names to a panel. Among the petit jurors drawn were Paul Gibson, Earl Piper and T. A. Warrenford from Charleroi. In the list of traverse jurors is D. R. Carson, W. R. Davis and J. L. Reeves, of Charleroi.

ROAD BUILDING FOR YEAR WILL DEPEND ON PRICES

FAYETTE CITY MINES LESSENING OUTPUT

Mines in the Fayette City district are curtailing production, owing to a lessening demand, and as a consequence an additional number of miners are being thrown into idleness. The Fayette mine of the Lowber company, is working but two days a week. Another mining corporation is working three days a week.

FINE INSTRUCTOR FOR NEMACOLIN CLUB

The Nemacolin Country Club at Beallsville, which numbers many Charleroi people among its membership, has closed a one-year contract with Peter Walsh, who has served the Butler Country Club as professional for the past few years. Both the club and Walsh are to be congratulated. In Walsh the Nemacolin Club gets a professional who not only can play the game, but a young man who is a district credit to the golf profession, viewed from all angles.

Walsh began his golf career as a bag-toting caddy boy at the Pittsburgh Golf Club to a full-fledged professional who is able to hold his own with the good ones in the "paid brigade."

Walsh has also developed into a good instructor—conscientious and courteous, modest to a fault and with the ability to demonstrate.

Nemacolin should prove a fertile field for Walsh, who goes in on the ground floor. The membership at Nemacolin, like the Monongahela Valley Club, is made up largely of beginners who have already evinced an eagerness to learn.

Walsh already holds the record for the nine-hole course at Butler, which will doubtless stand for some time to come, his score being 81.

SUDDEN DEATH OF DAVIS E. GAMBLE

Davis E. Gamble, a prominent resident of Monongahela and engaged in the feed business who was spending the winter in California, died suddenly at his home near Pasadena on Friday last. It is expected the remains will be brought east for interment.

CORRECTION IN PRICES AT THE COYLE THEATRE

The price of admission to the Coyle theatre this evening will be 11 and 28 cents. In the advertisement of Saturday it was stated the prices would be 11 and 22c. This was an error, the correct figures being 11 and 28. Patrons will please take note.

Greatest Highway Development in State's History if Prices Are Right

OUR OWN COUNTY WILL PROFIT

Western Pennsylvania highway improvements will be launched by state and counties on probably the greatest scale ever known, this spring, if price conditions become satisfactory, according to an announcement made in Harrisburg last Saturday. Plans and estimates are now being prepared by the State Highway Department for 1921, providing for the building of miles of durable road on state main routes an extensive construction on state aid roads, together with county building on state specifications.

A number of projects which had to be deferred during 1920 owing to price and labor conditions, the listed, and the aggregate to be spent on highways west of the Alleghenies will run into the millions. The routes will link some of the main arteries of travel.

The Commissioners of Washington Greene and a number of other western counties have set figures in regard to county payment and have asked in some cases for the state to match construction. Some arrangements have been made also for building in Fayette and Erie counties.

Under the plan of state planning for construction of secondary highways, hundreds of miles of township highway will be built and state rewards will be paid to many districts for improvements now under way.

It is anticipated that advertisements will appear within a few days for the offer of bids for improvement of important highways in this county, and if the figures are right it is expected that contracts will be awarded.

THE ARMY REDUCTION.

One of the most hopeful signs that there is a real intent to get back to a peace basis and to come to a more economical government, is the message of the joint resolution reducing the army to 175,000 men. This is a semi-victory and as such is a satisfaction to people in general.

The original Senate resolution for an army of 150,000 would have saved about $25,000,000 per year and probably would have provided an army that is amply sufficient for all our needs. The claims of the war department and the army officers that it will require at least 200,000 men to form the nucleus of an army organization does not seem to be borne out by others who have given the matter study.

When the cold figures are put before us of the terrible cost of war, merely in money, it is startling. Of all our expenditures for the last year by the National government, 93 per cent was given for educational purposes.

Think what a burden we are placing on our children if we permit such expenditures to continue. We are not a military nation. We are supposed to be the most peaceful nation in the world, yet we are paying out a greater proportion of our revenues for war and war preparation than Germany did in her worst days of militarism.

These figures are not taken from any sensational account, but are from actual official records of the government and from the testimony of government officials before various investigating committees. They are a sad commentary on our efforts at economy and a reflection on our desire for real peace.

The propaganda for so-called "preparedness" had very little effect, even when the threat of war was upon us. Our traditions are all against such action and now with the necessity for a reduction of taxes, there is small chance that any agitation will result in any increase of our armaments.

The unfortunate part is that the present strength of the army is about 210,000 and the only way to reduce it by expiration of enlistments. But all recruiting will stop until such time as the total is brought down to the figures provided. That the president will approve the resolution is generally accepted, but there seem to be votes enough to pass it over a possible veto.

NOW FOR ACTION.

At the closing meeting of the campaign workers in the new Chamber of Commerce campaign, held at the Elks Club on Friday, Mr. Allsop, the managing representative from the American City Bureau took occasion to offer the new organization some good advice.

First and foremost, he said that the organization should have a definite program and then follow it. All mercantile business houses, banks and churches have a program which they follow. So must the new Chamber of Commerce. Adopt a definite policy and follow it, and let the majority rule.

Another thing he impressed upon his hearers was to foster the spirit of co-operation. During the great World War, said the speaker, we did wonders in the way of organizing for destructive efforts; now let us turn this same spirit into organization for constructive work.

And again, the Chamber of Commerce will be just what the members make it. It will reflect their personal and expressed opinion, and just as the membership lends itself to its success so will it prosper. There is plenty of hard work ahead, but with a definite plan of action, and every member doing his duty, the Chamber of Commerce will be a wonderful power for good and for the betterment of the community.

It is now time for action.

EQUAL RIGHTS.

As men are notoriously inconsistent, obviously the women of these times have the right to be more so. Nevertheless the inconsistency of some of the suffragists is a fair subject for comment. Miss Clara Sears Taylor of Washington wants the "ten million bachelors" of this country to be taxed and yield the government an income of some twenty million dollars a year. Male bachelors, of course. It did not occur to her that the proposed income could be doubled or more than doubled by including bachelor maids. More consistent is Miss Lucille Pugh, who, although a bachelor herself, objects to the discrimination against her sex which such a proposition involves. "There it is again—the old double standard," she impatiently protests. I thought we were getting away from that. Why should we women be discriminated against in taxation any more than in voting? I would be willing to pay $1 or $2 or $1,000 or any amount a year to insure my continued freedom.

How many of Miss Pugh's sister suffragists would be willing to pay a thousand dollars "or any amount" to be consistent and have equal rights with men in taxation remains to be seen, for when the matter is put up to them in a practical way they are not always pleased. It is related that not long ago a man saw a recognized suffragist standing before him in a street car and, instead of offering his seat, he asked if she believed in equal rights. Being answered emphatically in the affirmative, he said: "Then stand up like a man and enjoy them." It is said to have been evident that the lady did not dote on equal rights to this extent and that she appeared to regard the bold man as a very disgusting male creature.

LETTERS OF GRATITUDE

Eloquent language and illustrations in advertising may appeal to many, but after all it is the homely, sincere letters from women overflowing with heartfelt gratitude for health restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that convince other suffering women that there is a medicine that will help them also. Many such letters are being published in this paper from day to day, and it is to any woman's advantage who suffers from female ailments in any form to give this old fashioned root and herb remedy a trial.

Treasure Trove.

Eight pieces of early English tapestry, said to be worth anything from $250,000 to $500,000, were recently discovered in Gloucestershire, England, packed away in a bedroom, occupied by the butler. They bear the date 1410 and are believed to be the most important pieces of tapestry ever found. The best-known panels are the huge tape in the Victoria and Albert museum, panels with figures and verdure being rare.

"Sir"

Like the olden days, Mr. Huxley dressed everybody as Sir. The poorest and most intimate of his friends was not exempt from this rule. When Mr. Huxley appeared to be in a particularly happy and cordial mood, Mr. C. H. Reynolds's sons, when called as well as his own child, were almost invariably saluted in that way and would appear a ludicrously forced manner, but when this mode of address had not gone out then so strongly as it has at the day.—R. H. Stoddard

Pleasure in Studying Bird Life.

The cooperation of birds and man, said from the days of Vergil, may well become more intimate and more fruitful of results, as our understanding of bird-life grows deeper. Was it not a British statesman, Viscount Grey of Fallodon, who said in one of his public speeches that the appreciation and study of birds yields a pleasure "deeper and more lasting than any pleasures of excitement, and, in the long run, happier than personal success?"

Ancient Surgery.

That the use of splints in the treatment of fractures was known to the prehistoric practitioners of prehistoric America is revealed by examination of the skeleton of a young woman recently exhumed in the Pueblo ruins at Aztec, N. M., says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The left forearm, badly broken in two places, was supported by six carefully made splints of wood, with evidence that there had been eight or nine.

Dig Result From Small Idea.

A boy of seventeen attended a "spirit-rapping" seance, and found that the spirit stood upon two brass rails running across the stage. He suspected electricity. Taking a piece of insulating wire, the ends of which were open, he held it across the two brass rails, and the "spirit" ceased to rap. Years afterward, this early experiment in radio-telegraphy came to his mind, and he invented the automatic system of signaling.

Peculiar Maori Belief.

Present-day Maoris are nominally Christians, but there are many old chiefs who are still fond of their ancient totam poles. Their religion is that of nature worship combined with the veneration of ancestors. A peculiar and interesting detail of their religion is in the belief that the soul dwells in each human being's left eye. The Maoris were confirmed cannibals in bygone days.

Ostrich's Feelings Hurt.

The finest ostrich feathers are the grey or more white ones which come off the wings. The bird seems to feel very keenly the disgrace of having their feathers plucked. They go about hanging their heads and showing their feathers very plainly. A more disgraced-looking creature than the freshly plucked ostrich does not exist.

Prolific Hen Honored.

Some time ago a public funeral was accorded by the villagers of Zoenigen, Switzerland, to a hen that died immediately after laying its thousandth egg and a granite tombstone was affixed and erected by them over its grave.

Most-Used Letter.

In Edgar Allan Poe's "The Gold Bug" he states that of letters of the English alphabet the "predominant" one is "e." The succession afterward is a, d, h, i, r, s, t, u, v, c, f, g, j, k, l, m, n, o, p, q, x, z.

The oldest known alphabet in existence is a little child's alphabet scratched on an old bottle of black ink found in an ancient Greek settlement in Italy, believed to belong to the fifth century B. C.

French Deputies Fear Plug Hat.

An American legislature may be brought to order and made to listen to the chair, as a rule, when the gavel is pounded loudly enough and continuously enough, but when the French chamber of deputies grows excited there is another method of restoring order. When the deputies have come to the state where they are pounding on desks with their canes and standing on chairs to shout abuse at each other over intervening heads and when blows threaten and duels are in the air, the president of the chamber opens the lower right hand corner of his desk—the deep drawer—and takes out an ancient plug hat which must have been installed there shortly after the French revolution, to judge from its cut, and solemnly he rises to his feet, holding the hat out at arm's length. One by one the raging deputies notice the pose and the hat, and they fall silent before the threat, in fear that the hat in the president's hand may be put on his head. If it is that act adjourns the chamber.—La France, New York.

Reading Aloud.

It seems a misfortune that the art of reading aloud has lapsed to such an appreciable extent. To read well is no mean accomplishment, although not usually included in the bag of ordinary "parlor tricks." It necessitates not only the unhesitating pronunciation of words, but the quick grasp of the author's meaning, the placing of proper accent, the sense of rhythm that gives a certain melody to prose, the avoidance of sing-song poetry, and also, and more important, a pleasing, well-modulated and sympathetic voice. Many who profess to find peace "nowhere save in a corner with a book," admit they find little pleasure in being read to, asserting appreciation and memory are assisted by the sight of the printed word. This is probably due to unskillfulness and would pass away in a short time.

Need of Friendship.

If that can only be useful on great occasions may die without exercising his abilities and stand a helpless spectator of a thousand vexations which fret away happiness and which nothing is required to remove but a little dexterity of conduct and readiness of expedients. No degree of knowledge attainable by man is able to set him above the want of hourly assistance, or to extinguish the desire of fond endearments and tender officiousness; and, therefore, no one should think it unnecessary to leave those arts by which friendship is gained. Kindness is preserved by constant reciprocation of benefits and interchange of pleasures; but such benefits can only be bestowed as others are capable to receive, and such pleasures imparted as others are qualified to enjoy.—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

Material Must Be in the Mind.

It's folly to imagine you can put anything into your mind. People by the thousands think they can put anything they want into other people's minds. The best they can do is to stir up natural ability. With this awakened there can be developed anything that lies within the range of the individual personality. The result will be that the mind will be able to do many things that not having been aroused it could never do. Some people get aroused in schools. Others with natural bent toward the why of things learn to think without the stimulus of others and give to the world many thoughts that help it to live better. One builds within the mind from the material stored there.

Systematize Work.

The skillful mechanic does not have to think how to employ the tools of his trade. Long use has accustomed him to work with them rapidly and accurately. If you have a routine work to do, learn to do it with as little mental effort as possible. The effort that will count in your success is the effort you bestow not on routine tasks but on unusual tasks. If your mind is continually occupied with the details of the job you will be in the same position as an executive who tried to run an office by doing everybody's work, thereby keeping him so close to details that he could have no perspective and exercise no generalship.—John Blake in Chicago Daily News.

Pike's Peak Conquered.

July 15, 1820, Dr. Frank James astonished the world by climbing to the top of Pike's peak, 14,109 feet above the sea. In April, 1919, a government war tank attempted to climb the peak, but was blocked by snowdrifts. A month later a caterpillar tractor made the ascent. Thousands of tourists now ascend the peak every year by auto, on foot and by rail.

Voices Louder Under a Tunnel.

AN OLD MAN AT 60-YOUNG AT 72

Says Animal Glands Brought Health and Strength After 10 Years of Illness

Recently a man of seventy-two announced that after taking capsules containing monkey gland extracts he had become as young and healthy as when he was forty in spite of the fact that he had been sick for ten years.

Reporters who interviewed this man said that he was a marvel of health and energy, and while he might not owe all of his remarkable vitality to the gland treatment it certainly looks as though it was largely responsible, for there are thousands of other men and women who are taking gland treatment in tablet form to restore health and strength with decided results.

The gland treatment is really easy to understand. It has been known for some time that the ductless glands supply a substance called hormones which are essential to the building up of the billions of cells in our muscles, nerves and bodies. When we begin to grow old or become weak, anemic or generally run-down it is due to the failure of these little glands to supply the hormones needed to help rebuild our tissues. This condition is usually caused by lack of exercise, modern living conditions and excesses of various kinds. So to recharge these glands we now go to life itself and take the extracts from the ductless glands of healthy animals which are put up in tablet form. Thus the substance which is lacking is supplied.

One such preparation which is enjoying a remarkable sale because of the quick return of health, strength and endurance is Glandex Compound which contains extracts from the glands of healthy sheep and cattle and also from other health and strength building ingredients. Glandex Compound is guaranteed by the manufacturers to produce decided results in run-down, weakened and anemic conditions in an ever few days or not your money back. Nearly all druggists sell Glandex Compound and report that their customers find it more than satisfactory in every way. The Glandex Company, Inc., 244 West 29th St., New York City.

THE FRANKLIN

Franklin owners can make authoritative comparisons because 95 per cent of them have previously owned other cars.

We recently asked a large number of them to name the Franklin advantages. Here are the results, in order—

1. Riding comfort
2. Tire mileage
3. Gasoline economy
4. Direct air cooling
5. Easy handling
6. Low upkeep cost

The Franklin does what it was designed to do when its principles of light weight, flexibility and direct air cooling were adopted 10 years ago.

Any motorist can easily make further comparisons with these owners' figures:

1. The gallon of gasoline

RESTRAIN HOUSE FROM DISPOSING OF PROPERTY

Injunction proceedings were filed on Saturday by Joseph A. Heron, et al., partners, doing business as Alexander & Co., bankers, of Monongahela, against S. M. House, Relia Rachel House and Samuel House, her husband, and Clark Haggerty. There is involved a 60-acre of land in Bentleyville. A hearing in the case was held at Washington at 10 o'clock this morning, a preliminary injunction having been filed.

A customary restraining order was issued last week, against the defendants maintaining the status quo and preventing them in any way from conveying to any person, firm or corporation, any interest in said tract, and from furthering encumbering the same to any person, firm or corporation to the injury of the plaintiffs or other lawful creditors of the said S. M. House.

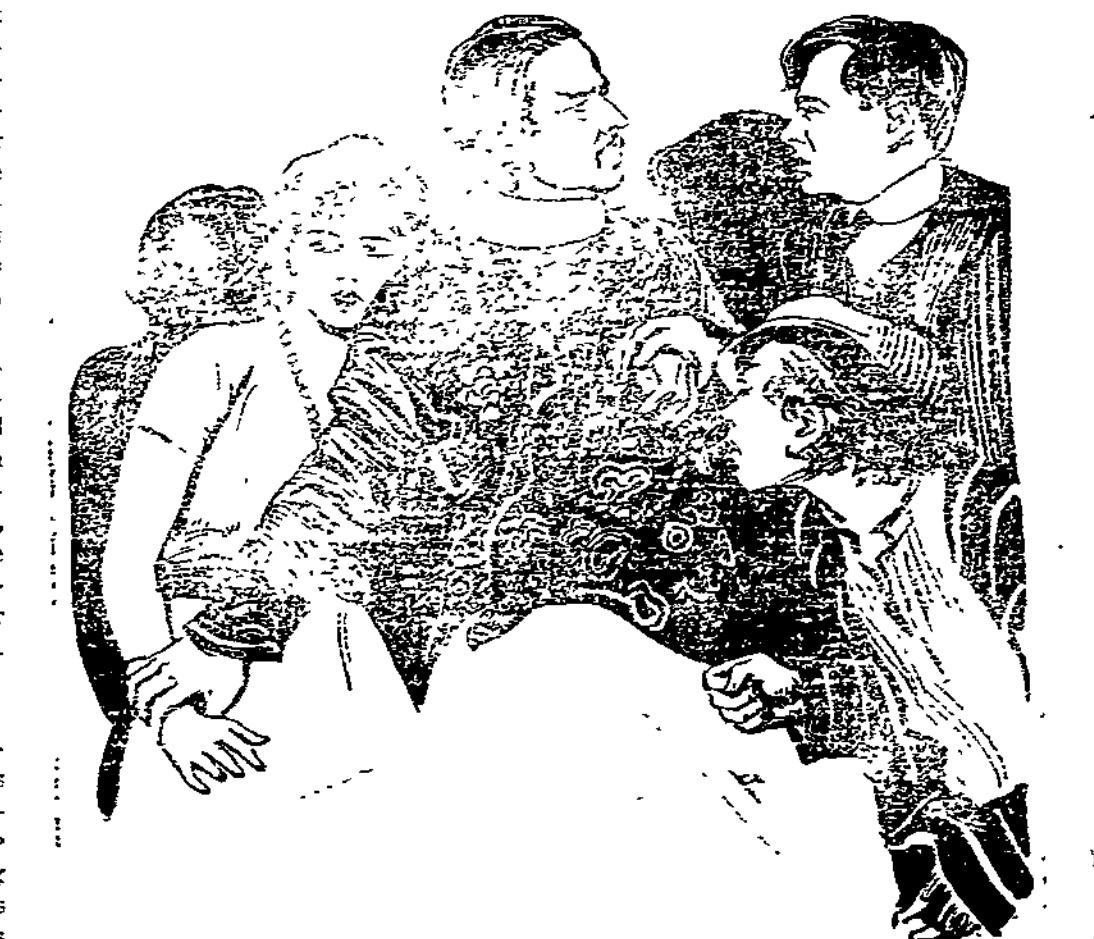

It is set forth that the said S. M. House is indebted to the Monongahela bankers in the sum of $1,600, as evidenced by judgment notes or record, given in a deal for the purchase of the equipment of the printing property of the Monongahela Times plant. It is alleged the defendant is trying to convey certain property in Bentleyville without valuable consideration, which would cause injury to the plaintiffs.

CITIZENS "PEEVED" OVER LACK OF GAS

The citizens of Monongahela were in arms the early part of the week over the gas supply being furnished them by the two local companies, neither of which appeared to be able to provide a sufficient supply for domestic purposes when a cold spell strikes the district. The consumers there are charged 50 cents per thousand and are compelled to suffer because of a lack of supply. Other towns in the valley report sufficient gas at all times, which only serves to make the Monongahela people all the more "peevish" because of their lack of the needful.

DINTY ON TRAIL OF GIRL KIDNAPPED BY CHINESE

One of the best attractions of a decade will be the entertainment offering at this theatre on Wednesday and Thursday. It is "Dinty," in which Marshall Neilan presents Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced boy actor in the first starring vehicle of his youthful career. Neilan wrote the story and directed the production, which is his latest release through Associated First National Pictures, Inc. It is the tale of a fighting newsboy, who has an old Irish mother to support. San Francisco's picturesque Chinatown is the locale for some of the scenes, and the photoplay is replete with dramatic as well as amusing incidents. Among the unique characters who appear in support of Wesley Barry are "Dinty" O'Sullivan, a Chinese youngster and a jolly little pickaninny. In the chief supporting roles are charming Colleen Moore, J. Barney Sherry, Pat O'Malley, Marjorie Daw and Noah Beery. Romance, pathos, humor and thrilling adventure makes this one of the most extraordinary cinema productions ever filmed. Wesley Barry's smile, freckles and inimitable acting made him famous in "Daddy Long Legs" with Mary Pickford, and "Don't Ever Marry" and "Go and Get It," but his crowning achievement has undoubtedly been made in "Dinty," under the masterful direction of Marshall Neilan. It is a motion picture triumph for both Barry and Neilan, and cannot fail to delight every man, woman and child who come to the Majestic Theatre to see it. "Dinty" has received the enthusiastic endorsement of critics throughout the country. "Nuf said."

IN DREAMS THERE IS TRUTH

One's Visions While Asleep Are Said to Be of Things He Would Like to Do.

When you dream that you are slaughtering a flock of potatoes it's more than probable that you're unconsciously expressing a repressed desire to kill your mother-in-law. In dreams a man does the things he secretly desired to do in waking life, but did not dare.

This was the interpretation of the Freudian theory of psycho-analysis given by Dr. William J. Durant, former instructor of philosophy in Columbia university, in a lecture the other night in Milwaukee.

"The mask of morality is taken off in dreams, and man acts in the primitive animal fashion," Doctor Durant said. "In dreams there is truth. Man was not meant for cold deliberation, but for the immediate reactions of the animal. By nature we would knock other persons down without thinking about it."

"Civilization, according to Freud, is built on the two great repressions of pugnacity and sexuality. Monogamy as a marriage form, in Freud's view, is after all a terribly artificial thing and a great strain on all of us."

"We love children because they have no repressions, whereas, we know we're lied to nine times out of ten with adults." The conclusion, he said, is that "hypocrisy and polite mendacity constitute the essence of civilization."

SURVEY WORLD BY WIRELESS

Scheme to Be Tested in Determining the Boundary Between South and West Australia.

It is proposed to utilize wireless telegraphy in determining the exact position of the boundary between South and West Australia. The boundary is fixed by act of parliament as the 129th degree of longitude east of Greenwich. The exact position of the longitude will be ascertained by the use of time signals from a high-power wireless station situated at some point between Greenwich observatory, in England, and Sydney, in Australia, the signals being received simultaneously at both stations.

Most of the great observatories of the world are now collaborating in a redetermination of the longitudinal division of the earth's surface by means of wireless time signals, and this is one of the earliest uses of the system to settle a disputed position.

Given favorable static conditions, it has been found that signals from the Lyons wireless station, in France, can be received in Australia as well as at Greenwich, and signals from other stations, more favorably situated, are also being tested. The co-operation of the United States as well as the British government has been invited. The scheme is the first step toward a comprehensive determination of the whole longitudinal survey of Australia.

Cost of Caste.

A Hungarian immigrant tells of life in his native town, a reminiscence of what is gone, in the World's Work.

"I held a good position in a bank in Budapest. Every morning I was driven to my work in a dapper, and every afternoon I was driven to my home. I mention that dapper because it can be taken as a symbol of the old life in Budapest, just as the five-cent subway ride to business can be taken as a symbol of life in New York. In Budapest it was easy, gay, frivolous; almost every one who made a pretense of what we called living spent more than he earned. I do not want to forget the good things in the old life—Magyar hospitality was open-handed, warm, fine; but financially, Magyar social life was built on straw—almost all were living beyond their incomes. If a family tried to reduce its expenses, to live truthfully, it lost caste.—Bertalan Barna.

Long for Good Old Days.

Two ragged youngsters stood at the pool before the big ornamental statues at the Columbus circle entrance to Central park, looking longingly at their reflection in the cold smooth depths of the undisturbed water.

"Aw, gee, I wish it hadn't a got cold," said one.

"Aw, me too," the other replied. "Nobody stops any more to throw quarters in the water. It's too cold. Anyhow you wouldn't catch this bold kitten that ice water in this makeup. I'll say I need the money, but not that bad. All I wish is it wuz warm agin. And they say bizness ain't a gonna be so good next summer, cuz people's gonna hang onto their coin then. Gosh, but war times wuz good times. Wish they'd bring back the good old days."

Enhanced in Value.

"This traffic policeman says you were going fifty miles an hour." "Judge," said the motorist, "I can hardly believe it, but would you object if I asked the officer to put that statement in writing and give me a duplicate copy?"

"What for?"

"As soon as I pay my fine I'm going out and try to sell that little old bus."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Questions.

- (1) What variety of mosquito is responsible for the spread of malarial fever?
- (2) Where do mosquitoes deposit their eggs?
- (3) How may mosquito be eliminated?

MOSQUITOES

Malaria Anopheles, pronounced an awful easier, yawned and stretched, then with characteristic abandon proceeded to stand on her head—rather unadvisedly, but Madame Anopheles was a mosquito and after all that position was natural to her special family, thus differing from her cousin, the Culex, who always stands with their slim bodies parallel to the object upon which they are resting.

Madame Anopheles had subsisted for the first two days of her life upon vegetable diet; when her husband warned her that the eggs which were already forming in her body, would not develop unless she had a meal of blood, she sallied forth to find a victim. She floated through an open window and softly settled on the cheek of a man wrapped in the profound sleep of exhaustion following a paroxysm of the chill, fever and sweating of malarial fever.

Only a few drops of blood served to fill her stomach to distention, yet those few drops, drawn at the favorable time, contained numbers of the two elements which, only in the stomach of the Anopheles Mosquito (according to present knowledge) can combine to reproduce the Anopheles which are the active causes of malarial fever.

Soon in her body thousands of new born Anopheles were ready to be carried into the blood of the next person whose skin she punctured.

In a week Madame Anopheles, before, simply an annoyance, had become a carrier of malarial fever and a grave menace to public health.

All mosquitoes deposit their eggs in either stagnant or very slow moving water. A rain barrel—an untended tin can—a water bucket—pitcher, anything which will hold water. A few days later the eggs split and wrigglers emerge, fuzzy, squirming, thread-like they dart about erratically, now and again coming to the surface for air. The Anopheles are equipped with short breathing tubes along the rear portion of the back. As they thrust their air tubes through the surface they are forced to assume a position almost parallel with the top of the water.

Other varieties of Mosquitoes have much longer breathing tubes situated at the extremity of the back, which cause them to hang with the head downward when taking air—in this way the Anopheles may be distinguished even in the larva or (wriggler) state.

Next comes the pupal stage when the larvae changes its form somewhat and floats at the surface looking something like a curled up catfish. After a few days of this life, the skin splits and the full grown mosquito emerges.

Male mosquitoes do not bite, it is not at all a matter of preference, but because they are not so constructed that they can.

Anopheles Mosquitoes are found in all hot countries, they abound in our own southern states.

They are also found in Pennsylvania.

There is no malaria where there are no Anopheles Mosquitoes. The Anopheles can not give malaria unless it suck blood from a malarial patient. The Anopheles may be distinguished from other varieties of mosquito by their characteristic posture, standing almost on their heads and by the black specks on their wings.

Patients with malaria must be screened against mosquitoes. Mosquitoes can be exterminated in any locality by destroying their breeding places.

Marshes should be drained, pools of standing water which cannot be drained should be covered with a thin layer of oil—kerosene or a crude oil dilution. A small quantity of oil soon distributes itself evenly over a large body of water. When mosquito larvae come to the surface to breathe, the oil fills the breathing tube and they die from suffocation. Small receptacles about the house containing water may prove excellent breeding places for mosquitoes.

The drip from the back yards hydrant, the clogged rain spout, the horse trough are all favorable to mosquito breeding.

In long continued dry seasons the water traps between surface drains and sewers in towns and cities afford excellent breeding places for mosquitoes. Such traps should either be oiled after each rain or routinely flushed once a week to wash out the larvae before they have time to develop into mosquitoes.

With no Anopheles Mosquitoes there can be no malaria—with no standing water there can be no mosquitoes.

At supper mother asked Buddy how he got along with arithmetic that day. He answered with some pride: "I know'd almost as much as I didn't know."

The Silver Lining.

People who are in the habit of worrying because they have too little leisure would do well to remember that every year we have nearly two months of Sundays.

Tribute to the Clematis.
No clematis is like another clematis. It climbs differently; the setting is different; it consorts with different flowers in different surroundings; and as it puts forth its tender leaves, the delicate leaf stalks grip here, there, and instantly curl round the support. Climbing plants are versatile, always unexpected, and refined; generous to those with whom they live, not proud, and a very real joy to all travelers.—Christian Science Monitor.

Measuring Fixed Stars.

For many years it was thought impossible to measure the fixed stars. The latest astronomers, with the best glasses, tried and failed. When the first triumph came it was not some fiery orb that attracted the most attention, to find whose distance from the sun was found, but an insignificant sixth magnitude star not far from Icarus, which had only its number, 61 Cygni, for a name.

Old Boston Burying Grounds.

After the oldest burying grounds in Boston were forsaken for newer ones, they were allowed to go uncared for, and in these years of neglect stones were stolen, moved about, broken and lost. In Copp's Hill burying ground, up the street from the Old North church, stones were fished to fill in holes in chimneys and prop up doorsteps around the neighborhood.

Meanings of Oats in Dream.

To dream of this grain foretells a journey by land; if an engaged young girl dreams of oats it denotes that her wedding tour is not far off. To see the field of oats is a good sign, but to see it cut down is an evil omen. To see oats stored away denotes famine. To sow oats signifies much happiness and gain.

The First Keyboards.

The earliest keyboard of which there is record was that of the hydraulic or water organ, a Greek invention of the Second century. In this the keys, eighteen in number, were all level. The modern chromatic keyboard was in use as early as 1361. The keys were so large they had to be struck with the fist.

INVENTORYING

The winter months give the farmer an opportunity to take stock of his last year's successes and failures, and to turn them to good account in laying plans for the coming season.

Facts in this way brought to light may mean the dropping of a crop proved to be raised at a loss, or eliminating livestock that have been living as "boarders" on his bounty.

Progressive farmers lay their plans ahead at inventory-time. We are glad to help such farmers in their business.

REMNANT DAY

twice a year—for over forty years—it happens—more than eighty, REMNANT DAYS in all—one only greater than the one before. All over Western Pennsylvania—into Ohio and West Virginia—people—scores of thousands of them—rub with increasing interest for this day—the big money-saving event before which all ordinary "sales" fade into obscurity.

This year think of what it means—prices already cut to lowest mark in years—reductions often of one-half—and more—in last 60 or 90 days—now must go lower—must stand a big cut that will make this REMNANT DAY worthy of its predecessors—and break all records—do 10 days' business in one.

That's what will positively be done—price cutting—with emphatic force in every department—surplus—odd lots—slow-moving goods—and thousands of dollars' worth of staple merchandise in great quantity—RED INK for the day—cost forgotten—at a price that is but a ghost of what they brought in very recent days.

BE ON HAND FOR REMNANT DAY—IT'S WORTH COMING MILES FOR.
